Startling Colors Prevail in Summer Fashions for Children—Two Tier Skirts Favorites for Children—Also Accordion Pleating—Tiny Bolero Jackets Found on Many of the Dresses—Keep the Sewing Machine Out of Sight—Novel Idea—Separate Skirts for Wear With Lace Blouses—Four Exceptionally Good Recipes.

SUMMER FASHIONS FOR CHILDREN.

Startling Colors Prevail.

A feature worth remarking in the summer fashions for children and girls is the prevalence of startling colors. While white, and dainty blues and pinks are still the only shades used for children under 6 years, that mature age is regarded as the proper time for blossoming out into all sorts of giddy and gaudy colors, that a few years ago would not have been attempted by even a daring person old enough to do what she pleased.

Orange, terra cotta, beetroot, red, citrine, flame and various bright blues are even more common in the wardrobe of the younger world than are the pastel shades. They are made very simply, however, the Russian style being a favorite, the vivid color of the costume being relieved by a sash or girdle of black, as well as by a white gimp or white collars and cuffs. Where the latter are embroidered, the effect is very pleasing.

Two tier skirts are also favorites for children. For this fashion the heavy lines seem to be the favorites. If the double skirt is flared or shaped, but if it is to be gathered or plaited, the softer materials, crepes, batistes, or silks are used. Accordion plaiting is extremely popular, especially in dancing frocks. As a rule the waist is made in the Russian blouse effect, although occasionally one sees the baby waist with embroidered collars and cuffs. Roman sashes, which have been adopted by children to a very great extent, are very attractive when worn with this style of dress.

For party dresses this same idea can be carried out in a soft material, with the flounces lace-edged, and with sleeves and collar of lace. The tunic is frequently sleeveless, the lace ruffles of the gimp giving an appearance of extreme daintiness. Tiny bolero jackets are found on many of the dresses. To be really effective they must be of plain material—silk or crepe—trimmed with a cording of the silk, with perhaps a ruffle of net or lace about the neck. Worn with empire dresses of plain crepe or accordion plaited chiffon, the bolero is one of the most pleasing styles for party frocks. Children, of course, do not follow the fashion of the decollete gown, so distinctly the ruff with the older sisters. All of their dresses have tiny yokes, although all, of course, are collarless. If one wants a little extra trouble in making the bolero (trouble that is worth while, however), the edge can be scalloped by hand.

KEEP THE SEWING MACHINE OUT OF SIGHT.

A sewing machine, no matter how good looking its wooden case, is not an attractive addition to bedroom or dining room in the small apartment, yet there is no convenient corner in which it may be tucked out of sight, ready for instant use when needed. One clever little housewife has hit upon the notion of keeping her sewing machine under her dressing table. She bought an ordinary kitchen table, just broad and long and high enough to allow of the machine's being pushed under it easily. The sewing machine in question had not a drop-head, but it was an easy matter to unhook the top from the table and slip off the belt from the wheel, and an equally easy matter to attach the top again when a day's sewing was in contemplation. Covered with a cretonne spread and valance and set in front of an oval mirror, picked up at a second-hand shop for less than $2, the table was a very attractive addition to a dainty bedroom whose curtains and chair cushions were made of matching cretonne.

SEPARATE SKIRTS FOR WEAR WITH LACE BLOUSES.

So delicately soft and sheer are the new blouses of lace and chiffon that they seem to demand something more distinguished in the skirt line than an ordinary Trousseau affair of serge or mohair. New separate skirts of silk are graceful and gay affairs with tunics, ruffles and draperies suggesting the new bustle effect. They are usually made of black silk, tango crepe, canton crepe, pussy willow taffeta and satin.

Pompadour Pudding.
Add 2 ounces of fine white bread crumbs to 1-3 pint of boiling cream. When cool, beat with 5 ounces finely chopped suet, 1 ounce of flour, 2 ounces crushed macarons, 2 ounces stoned raisins, 2 ounces candied peel or preserved cherries chopped, zest of a lemon and a pinch of nutmeg. Beat well, add yolk of 4 eggs and a glass of brandy, pour into a mold and steam it. Serve with a custard sauce, hot, flavored with oranges or sherry.

COMMENCEMENT AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

The senior class of the Ogden high school is planning a program of commencement exercises which will surpass any that has ever been given by a class from that school. The class has asked that a week be given them to fill with different events and the favor has been granted by the faculty. All credits will be given a week ahead and, as all the examinations shall have been passed by that time, the final week will be used solely for pleasure. The committees are already at work on the plans for the different events and say that they will be carried out in an elaborate manner.

The first event of commencement week will be the baccalaureate address, which is to be given by Rev. W. W. Fleetwood in the First Methodist church. Arrangements will be made at the church to seat two hundred more persons than were seated last year and the address will be given on the Sunday preceding the end of the school term.

The commencement exercises will be held at the Orpheum theatre and will be followed with a banquet. The class is also planning to give a dance at the Hermitage during the week.

Another feature of the exercises of the week will be the planting of a class ivy on the east wall of the high school, which will be the first one to be planted at the school and will mark the establishment of an annual custom.

The class is also arranging to present a silver loving cup to the school, to be used as a prize for class debates. The cup will have the num-

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Nine-tenths of All Stomach Trouble Said to Be Due to Acidity.

A Physician's Advice on Cause and Cure.

A famous physician whose successful researches into the cause and cure of stomach and intestinal diseases have earned for him an international reputation, said in the course of a recent lecture that the acidity of the stomach is one of the most common and dangerous of ailments, as well as many diseases of the vital organs, were directly traceable to a diseased condition of the stomach, which in turn was due nine times out of ten to excessive acidity, commonly termed sour stomach or heartburn, which not only irritated and inflamed the delicate treatment for the stomach, stating that gastritis and stomach ulcers, as it is interesting to note that the use of medical treatment for the stomach, stating that he and his colleagues have secured remarkable results by the use of ordinary bismuthated magnesia, which, by neutralizing the acidity of the food, removes the source of the trouble. He contends that it is as foolish to treat the stomach itself as it would be for a man who was stepping on a tack to rub liniment on the foot without first removing the tack. Remove the tack and the foot will heal itself. Neutralize the acid and the stomach troubles will disappear. Irritating medicines and medical treatments are useless, so long as the contents of the stomach remain acid; remove the acidity, and there will be no need for medicine. The inflamed lining of the stomach will then heal itself. Sufferers from acidity, sour stomach or heartburn should get a small quantity of bismuthated magnesia from their druggist, and take a teaspoonful in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after meals, repeating in fifteen minutes. If necessary, this being the dose which the doctor has found most efficacious in all cases.—Advertisement.

ARRANGE FOR FRUIT SHIPMENTS

Provo, Utah, April 21.—The members of the Timpanogos Commercial club have appointed a committee to confer with the Salt Lake & Utah Railroad company relative to depot and tracks for loading fruit in the Timpanogos fruit district. The committee is composed of President T. B. Woodward, Secretary O. H. Anderson, Joseph Hampton, F. J. Bushnell and William Marrott. Another committee, consisting of Edward Harris, William Church, Thomas Russon, William Marrott and M. H. Peterson, will confer with the Utah Fruitgrowers' association and other fruit-shipping concerns on the matter of packing sheds for handling and shipping the big fruit crop expected to be harvested on Provo Bench this season. The club is also taking up the question of extending the rural mail delivery over the bench country, which is rapidly increasing in population.

PROVO TO BENEFIT FROM CAMP ESTATE

Provo, April 21.—Provo people will benefit by the millions of Cecil Camp, from the estate of Dr. I. Camp, heirs to which inquiry has been made by W. William J. Camp of Pelham, Ga. The part of the estate, as stated, for which heirs are being sought is $5,000,000, the portion of Cecil Camp's heirs, through Dr. I. Camp's son, William Washington Camp. The Provo heirs are Mrs. W. A. Nuttall, Mrs. Will Boshard and Mrs. Joseph Kirby. Other members of the same family are Mrs. Morris Duffield of Salt Lake and Stephen D. Greer and John Greer of Wallburg, Wasatch county. They are the children of Dixon Hamilton Greer, deceased. Mrs. Greer, their mother, was a daughter of William Washington Camp, who was a Utah pioneer, coming from Texas, and, consequently, Mrs. Greer was a granddaughter of Cecil Camp. Another son of William Washington Camp is Richard Camp, now engaged in mining in Nevada. He is the father of Miss Beatrice Camp, instructor in elocution in the B. Y. university. The heirs are getting the family records in shape for presentation in substantiation of their claims, which they have no doubt of being able to establish. Mrs. Nuttall remembers well the story in the family about her grandfather, W. W. Camp of Salt Lake, entertaining an eastern company of California emigrants at an early day and, giving them money.

PROTESTING FRANCHISE.

Farmington, Utah, April 21.—E. R. Morgan and Francis M. Lyman, Jr., appeared here today to protest against the proposed franchise to the Utah Light & Railway company, entitling it to build its Salt Lake-Ogden interurban line along the center of the Farmington main street. They came as representing the automobile highway movement.

John A. Bourne, Edward A. Cottrell and E. B. Clark, representing the council, appear to remain of the opinion that the line should have the center of the street in the interest of safety for vehicles and pedestrians, as in other cities. This committee has gone over the ground and has considered the matter from the viewpoint of Farmington more than for the convenience of the automobile highway.

However, a substitute ordinance has been prepared and submitted to the city attorney. This contemplates allowing the railroad company to construct along the center of First East street, one block east of Main street, within the more thickly populated part of Farmington, and to turn into highway number 1, the state road, at either end of the city. The railway company is being notified of this and other changes contemplated in the franchise, and a conference on this matter will be held between representatives of the city and the company.

OF SILK AND SERGE.

The latest fads, pleasingly modified, mark this dress as a favorite. The blouse of changeable blue and grey silk is closed in front with silver buttons and finished with a white lawn collar and narrow hemstitched wristbands. A sleeveless jacket of blue serge is buttoned to the sash with silver buttons.

The skirt is of the serge, straight and quite short, fitted with darts around the top and partially covered by a circular flounce of the silk. This flounce is edged with a band of the serge.

BATTLESHIPS AT SCENE OF WAR

Washington, April 22.—Rear Admiral Badger, commanding the Atlantic fleet, officially reported to the navy department today the arrival at Vera Cruz of his flagship, the Arkansas, along with the battleships Vermont, New Jersey, New Hampshire and South Carolina. The scout cruiser Chester and the San Francisco have arrived in Vera Cruz from Tampico.

Rear Admiral Badger has reported the arrival at Vera Cruz of the battleship Minnesota and the naval transport Hancock with marines from New Orleans. These ships had stopped at Tampico and were ordered to proceed to Vera Cruz. The admiral reported that he had plenty of marines now to control the situation.

Rear Admiral Badger reported to the navy department today that he had ordered the torpedo flotilla from Vera Cruz to Tampico to reinforce the Des Moines in that port, which was left alone when the other vessels were withdrawn to Vera Cruz.

Washington, April 22.—Majority Leader Underwood announced today that he did not expect the house to act on any bill appropriating money for war purposes in Mexico at the present time.

"We have plenty of money now unless the president expects to march to Mexico City," said Mr. Underwood. "As far as I know, the president has no such intention."

Washington, April 22.—When the house convened at 10 o'clock, Majority Leader Underwood announced that the senate justification resolution was not engrossed and a ten-minute recess was taken.

WATER PROBLEM ADJUDICATED.

Pocatello, Idaho, April 21.—The public utilities commission has just made a decision which is of much importance to Pocatello and vicinity. It perhaps settles the water question, which has been under litigation for a good many years. The commission has decided that the value of the company's holdings here should be about $213,000, whereas the company held it at $600,000. Also, the company is asked to divert all of the waters of Mink creek according to contract so that the supply of water will be sufficient, and that as soon as this is done meters may be established.

SMITH MUST SUPPORT FAMILY.

Provo, Utah, April 21.—Wilson J. Smith, convicted of failure to provide for his wife, Marie D. Smith, and their infant child, was ordered today by Judge A. B. Morgan to pay $5 a week for their support and to give a $500 personal bond to insure compliance with the order.

distribution of the food of the people. Nothing is more gladly welcomed than the least sign of increase in food production, whether the opening up of new countries or the increased development of old. English merchants were once in a supreme position as customers, as purchasers of food. They could, and did, dictate their own terms, largely because England was almost the only country which could not supply itself with food. But recent changes have been such that today we are no more than participants in a general scramble for food by competitors from many nations.

The nature of these economic changes is soon stated. Years ago, when England was called the workshop of the world and the countryside was speeding here population into the cities to manufacture goods for export, and other countries were sending their abundant produce of their farms to our shores, we could buy what we liked at our own price, because England was the one great market for food produce. These conditions brought us great wealth and cheap food; but in the nature of things this peculiar pre-eminence could not last long. Partly in the course of natural growth, partly in deliberate imitation, other nations, especially the United States and Germany, organized prosperity on the English plan. With prudent enterprise they began to build up huge manufacturing concerns, and in order to facilitate the rapidity of their development they placed a tariff wall around them. That was the beginning of the end so far as cheap food was concerned in England.—London Daily Mail.

Almost everybody likes fried food, and fried food will "like" you, too, if it is fried with

Cottolene

Using Cottolene you can follow the deep fat method of frying. It's superior in every way to pan-frying—and you can afford it, because there is no waste. You simply strain the Cottolene and use it over and over again.

When fried in Cottolene, the food takes on a light, delicate brown, and absorbs very little of the fat. It is dainty and appetizing, and won't overtax the digestion.
